

Using the iPad at Home. for learning. for Therapy: Parent and SLP Perspectives

Saturday 4th
February
10am - 12 midday
Registration from 9.30am

Roy Cloud School,
Multi-Use Building
3790 Red Oak Way,
Redwood City, CA 94061

The iPad is a great tool for parents and professionals to use to enhance a child's communication skills. This workshop will focus on giving practical advice for all using the iPad for independent leisure as well as learning, and also how it can become an invaluable means of promoting a child's language skills. We will cover topics such as why the iPad is ideal to be used in a therapeutic environment, how it can be used at home by parents and families, what benefits can be derived from iPad use for children of different ages and with a range of different communication skill-levels, and which applications are available for educational support and learning. Abilities United (a local non-profit offering education, support and training to families of children of all abilities), SEPTAR (Redwood City's Special Education PTA) and Opening Doors (Belmont Redwood Shores Special Education PTA) are teaming up to offer this training aimed at both parents and professionals.

Speakers:

Dawn Ferrer, Speech Therapist and iPad Application Developer
Judy McCrary Koeppen, Speech Therapist
Shannon des Roches Rosa, Autism Parenting and iPad Advocate

Cost: $35 (if reserved in advance), $45 on the door.

To reserve a spot, please register in advance at: <http://is.gd/ipadworkshop>